

Code of conduct

Glassfiber Produkter AS (GP) will ensure that the company is correctly and well managed, and will always uphold the highest standards of integrity, honesty, openness and professionalism. GP is committed to truth and fair dealing, independence, competence and accountability in order to deliver quality, value for money-service to customers.

GP will always comply fully with Norwegian law and regulations, relevant international laws and statutory requirements. Every GP employee will exercise all reasonable professional skill and care in their work and recognise the rights and sensitivities of other individuals, both within the company and outside.

Corrupt practices will not be tolerated, and all commercial transactions will be properly and accurately recorded.

GP is a socially responsible company, and we will involve our employees in the planning and direction of work. We fully respect the human rights of our employees and will ensure equal opportunity through promotion and development of the skills of those we employ, this will always be supported by competitive terms and conditions and safe work practices.

GP believes that being actively responsible for all stakeholder interests contributes significantly to our business success based on improved customer satisfaction, greater commitment on the part of our employees, and an enhanced reputation in the community at large.

These GP principles form the basis for our operating structure, policies and core processes, and these standards are required and expected of all GP employees, suppliers, partners, agents and consultants.
